

CHAIRMAN INGLE WILL MAKE HIS HOME HERE

Head of Regional Bank Regards Appointment as Call to Colors.

REGRETS LEAVING BALTIMORE

Has Been Long Connected With Prominent Financial Institution in That City—Receives Many Telegrams of Congratulation.

William Ingle, vice-president of the Merchants-Mechanics' National Bank, of Baltimore, who has been appointed by the Federal Reserve Board chairman of the board of directors of the Fifth District Reserve Bank, which will be established in Richmond, has been busy acknowledging congratulations upon his appointment.

As Federal reserve agent and the personal representative of the Federal Reserve Board, the board of directors of the Richmond bank, Mr. Ingle will be required to make this city his home. While long associations in Baltimore cause Mr. Ingle to view the transfer with a degree of regret, he finds comfort in the thought that he has many warm friends in Richmond who will welcome his coming.

REGARDS APPOINTMENT

AS CALL TO COLORS

The Baltimore Evening News of Thursday carries the following: "The Baltimore Evening News of today on William Ingle, vice-president of the Merchants-Mechanics' National Bank, following the announcement from Washington that he had been chosen chairman of the regional board of the Fifth District, for which Richmond has been selected as headquarters. These telegrams came from all parts of the country. Several came from Richmond, and they pleased Mr. Ingle very much, for if Richmond succeeds in holding its position as the regional city Mr. Ingle must make his home there. Others came from cities in Kansas. These pleased Mr. Ingle, too, because friends so far away did not neglect the opportunity for congratulating him."

"It is probably the one thing that pleased Mr. Ingle more than any other was the comment of Douglas Thomas, president of the Merchants-Mechanics' Bank, who was sitting close by when an interviewer asked Mr. Ingle to refresh his memory on the number of years he had been with the bank and the different capacities in which he had served."

"I have been here thirty-four years," replied Mr. Ingle.

"And never a harsh word between us," commented Mr. Thomas.

"He's an easy boss," laughed Mr. Ingle.

"We'll all endorse that," commented another official.

"Starting in at twenty, Mr. Ingle ran the gamut of banking positions, having been made cashier in 1890 and later chosen as vice-president, the position he now occupies."

"As chairman of the district bank under the new banking law, Mr. Ingle is practically the president of an institution with a capital stock of $4,000,000, and the deposits in time may amount to $10,000,000 or so. These figures were mentioned by Mr. Ingle."

"We'll all endorse that," commented another official.

"I intend," he said, "to do the best I can for every one in the whole district."

"Asked when he expected to assume the duties of his new position, Mr. Ingle said:

"I do not know exactly, but I am of the opinion that I will be here some time this month. It is not the idea of those directing the organization of the new banking system to do anything to demoralize present financial conditions. It is rather their purpose to work out the plans so that stability will be secured to the maximum possible extent. The situation will be handled with this as the chief idea."

"We will move step by step, and where each will lead before it is taken."

"My work will require my presence there every day," he replied.

"Pretty hard, isn't it, to tear away from this fashion after all these years in Baltimore?"

"Naturally," he replied, "the friends of a lifetime are here. I have some good friends in Richmond, and I am counting on that circumstance to take some of the sting out of the change. The position itself offers a chance for some good, constructive work of the kind that has to be done, and if done in the right way will be of immense advantage to every one. So it's duty and a man ought not to shrink at a thing of that kind. I await the call to the colors."

"A regional bank with that capital stock and all those deposits will certainly have all the building all its own?"

"I don't know," he said. "The government," he continued, "will, no doubt, supply us with plans, and a building will, I suppose, come along with the rest. But that will take care of itself in due time. Just now there are more important things to be considered."

Baltimore has lodged a protest against Richmond as the headquarters of the regional bank for the Fifth District, claiming for the claim that this city, as the financial center, should have had the bank. Mr. Ingle was asked if he didn't intend to land the bank in Baltimore.

"Oh! I have nothing to do with that—know nothing about it," he replied.

MOTION PICTURE CONCERN

SECURES STATE CHARTER

Thanshouer Syndicate Corporation May Have Maximum Capital Stock

A new motion picture concern, with authorized capital of from $1,000 to $2,000,000, was chartered yesterday by the State Corporation Commission. It is the Thanshouer Syndicate Corporation of Richmond. It is empowered by its charter to conduct the motion picture business in all its branches. The officers are: Thomas Thanshouer, president, of Richmond, and W. E. Johnston, secretary, of New Rochelle, N. J. Other officers named:

Buy Hotel Corporation, Norfolk. Capital stock, $1,000 to $10,000. John Waters, president, Ocean View. Thomas Bell, secretary, Ocean View. Purposes: hotel business.

The Bank of Sugar Grove, Sugar Grove. Capital stock, $100,000 to $25,000. E. N. Ward, president; L. L. Hutton, secretary and cashier, both of Sugar Grove. Purposes: to operate a State Bank.

Brothers-Pruden Company, Inc., Norfolk. Capital stock, $35,000 to $50,000. H. L. Land, president; J. B. Pruden, secretary, both of Suffolk. Purposes: hardware business.

Petersburg Home Building Corporation, Petersburg. Capital stock, $1,000 to $15,000. C. L. Acken, president; Petersburg; J. Gordon Bohannon, secretary, Petersburg. Purposes: real estate business.

Amendment to charter of a foreign corporation, Thomas Cusack Company, increasing capital stock from $250,000 to $5,000,000.

Discusses Plans for Lime Plant.

The plans of Dr. Leavell, owner of the site chosen by the State Convict Lime Board for the proposed lime-grinding mill at Staunton, and subsequently rejected as undesirable because of the lack of transportation facilities, were further discussed yesterday at a conference held in the Capitol Building. The matter was considered by Governor Stuart and Major James B. Wood, of the board, but no action was taken. Commissioner of Agriculture G. W. Kolner, also a member of the board, was out of the city.

NURSES' SETTLEMENT APPEALS FOR FUNDS

Eleven Nurses Made More Than 4,000 Visits to Sick in July

Facing the winter months, which must bring suffering and hardships to the poor, and anticipating more calls than in any preceding year by reason of the annexation of new territory to the city in November, the Nurses' Settlement is appealing for additional annual subscribers to the fund necessary to carry on the settlement's work of mercy and philanthropy.

An unusual amount of sickness among the poor is expected this winter. The summer just closed was a trying season, the eleven nurses making over 4,000 visits to the sick in the month of July alone. Money is needed immediately to engage the services of one more nurse. Two nurses fell ill from overwork during the summer, it is stated. The settlement, therefore, the president, says it remains to be decided by the generosity of the people of Richmond whether the work of the Nurses' Settlement shall be continued successfully.

FIRST WOMAN MEMBER

Miss Roller and S. P. Waddill Named for Industrial Board

Miss Sarah Roller, of Richmond, and Samuel P. Waddill, of Henrico County, were named yesterday by the board of directors of the Virginia Home and Industrial School for Girls in Charlottesville. The institution recently transferred to State control.

The appointments were announced yesterday after Justice John J. Crutcher called on the Governor, recommending the appointment of Miss Roller, who is a member of the Virginia Home and Industrial School Board.

Miss Roller is the first woman ever appointed to serve on the board, except the Examining Board for Graduate Nurses. She is the only woman member of the Virginia Home and Industrial School Board.

LEN H. GARVEY WEBS PRETTY HAIRDRESSER

Marriage at Residence of "Parson Mike" Macdonald Consummation of Brief Courtship

A marriage at the residence of "Parson Mike" Macdonald, 110 West Clay Street, yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock was the natural and logical consummation of a romance in which a pretty hairdresser and a theatrical pianist were the principals.

The bride was Mrs. Annie O. Hughes, a stately blonde, and the bridegroom, Professor Leonard H. Garvey, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y. Mr. Garvey came to Richmond about three years ago. He was the orchestra director of the Colonial Theatre under the management of Ed. Lyons, and left that theatre to direct the orchestra of the Lyric Theatre when that vaudeville house was opened. A close friend of the Lyric, he left the Lyric to direct the orchestra at the Roof Garden of Rueger's Hotel, where he is now employed.

Six months ago he met Mrs. Hughes at a picnic. It was a case of love at first sight. Through six months the musician wooed the hairdresser. Garvey is the possessor of an automobile. It was his custom to take Mrs. Hughes to the movies every evening.

Last Wednesday the lovers were bowled down the boulevard leading to Bowling Green.

"Let's get married," said Garvey.

"Hadn't we better ask permission?" responded Mrs. Hughes.

"Suppose we emulate the example of the hero and heroine in the play and forget the permission part," said the musician. "I don't like to take chances. I'm a bad gambler."

"Oh, very well. As you please, Len."

And so it was all settled. The wedding was held at the residence of Mrs. Hughes' residence, 3217 Hanover Avenue, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Crutcher.

"Go away. Don't talk to me. I'm too happy," said the musician last night when he was asked about the marriage.

"Does daddy know?" he echoed. "I don't get it. I hadn't time to think of him. But say, I have fitted up the coziest sort of a nest at 261 West Cary Street for us, and we will be at home to our friends from now on, if any one should ask you."

ORDERS BOY RELEASED

Because the Sussex County magistrate who tried and convicted him was ignorant of the law, Little Joe Coleman, who was committed to the Petersburg jail to serve a term of thirty days and fined $25, was released yesterday afternoon, Governor Stuart having granted him a pardon.

Joe was arrested and arraigned before the magistrate for stealing a ride on a freight train passing through Sussex County. The boy is but sixteen years old. The statute law forbids the commitment of a youth of sixteen to jail, but the magistrate was unaware of the existence of the law. So he gave Joe thirty days and fined him $25. The Sussex County jail was either crowded or in bad repair. It is assumed, for the boy who had stolen a ride on a freight train was sent to Petersburg.

When the case was called to the attention of the Governor, he decided promptly that the magistrate had exceeded his authority and violated the law, and he ordered the immediate release of the boy.

BOY SCOUTS PASS TEST BEFORE COURT OF HONOR

W. H. Brown, Jr., First in Richmond to Successfully Stand Examination in Ornithology

The Court of Honor of Boy Scouts of America, Richmond Council, met last night at the Virginia Mechanics' Institute, with Chairman Frank W. Duke presiding. The following members of the court were present: Dr. D. S. Freeman, Dr. Ennigh G. Williams, D. S. Freeman, W. B. Houseman and Gordon Blair, W. B. Houseman, Scout executive of the Richmond Council.

Scout Frank Parater, of Troop 31, successfully passed the efficiency test in first aid to animals, pathfinding and fireman's knot. Scout Erwin Thomas, of Troop 16, passed a successful examination in life-saving and cycling, and Scout Leon Mayfield, of the same troop, successfully stood a similar examination.

The first year of the operation of the Weeks-McLennan migratory bird law, prohibiting spring shooting, shows that many black ducks breed in Virginia, and it is believed that more will remain here each year because of the stopping of the spring shooting.

Local sportsmen feel somewhat anxiously about the "couper," prevalent in Back Bay, thinking that the disease may be similar to that which carried off thousands of wild geese last fall and left the germs of the Western disease scattered along the Atlantic Coast.

Several of the scouts who appeared to stand the examination were advised to make better preparation. From the merit badges will be in vogue.

All Eagle Scouts of the city are urged to meet with the scout executive at Boulevard Driveaway gate, State Fair Grounds, this afternoon at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of picnicking tents. Boy Scouts are looking forward with great pleasure to the State Fair. It is expected that the membership of Richmond's Eagle Scouts will soon be increased.

OFFER DELINQUENT DEBTS TO HIGHEST BIDDER

Pollard, Sheppard and Walker Organize Corporation to Publish Those Who Do Not Pay

The sale of delinquent debts to the highest bidder is a new system of making collections which has been introduced into Richmond.

Distributed from door to door throughout the city this week is an alphabetical list of debtors whose accounts are offered for sale. The alleged back debts range from 95 cents to $243.

The names and addresses of the debtors are given and the nature of each account. Many of the accounts are trivial, such as owing for a haircut, a dress, and a West Main Street citizen who is advertised as owing $2.43 for professional services. One lawyer is down for $30, alleged to be due for "private" detective work.

The man is listed for $1.50 for clothes pressing.

Records on file at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth show that the incorporators of the company are Robert N. Pollard, James R. Sheppard, Jr. and H. M. Walker.

Officers are J. H. Dunbar, president, Richmond; E. H. Rittenour, secretary, Richmond; F. J. Devlin, treasurer, Pittsburgh, Pa. The charter was issued January 1. The authorized capital stock is $100,000 and the shares are valued at $10 each.

Teamster Bankrupt.

A petition in voluntary bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the clerk's office of the United States District Court by Winkie, a teamster.

His liabilities are placed at $321.12, while no assets are claimed.

PROTEST AGAINST TAX

Real Estate Exchange Opposes Burden on Brokers

Telegrams were sent yesterday by the Richmond Real Estate Exchange to the subcommittees of the Senate and House of Representatives asking that the proposed tax of $500 on brokers be not imposed.

The exchange has learned that a move is on foot to include this item in the emergency war tax measure, and it is pointed out, such a tax would apply to real estate agents who make loans. It is the opinion of the organization that no class of loans tend to build up the proposed tax. According to the message of protest was sent to Washington.

It is contended that the more real estate brokers there are, the more improving and building up of real estate values, and that it would be most disastrous to burden them with the proposed tax.

A case charging Tom Christian, colored, with shooting his little son in the arm with a revolver at his home in Henrico County, August 6, was dismissed when evidence was introduced at the hearing before Magistrate H. S. Sunday yesterday morning showing that the shooting was accidental. It was charged that Christian shot his son when a bullet directed at his wife missed its mark. Christian's wife swore the shooting was accidental.

Father Is Acquitted.

Governor Stuart will issue a proclamation in voluntary bankruptcy next Wednesday a State holiday. Wednesday is Richmond Day at the fair, and the custom of observing the day as a holiday in all State offices has been in vogue many years.

NATURAL FOOD FOR DUCKS IS ABUNDANT IN BACK BAY

Government Game Inspector Bailey Finds Wild Rice Plentiful in Princess Anne County

H. H. Bailey, government game inspector, who has returned from a trip to Tidewater Virginia, reports that there is more natural food for ducks in Back Bay, Princess Anne County, this season than for many years. There have been few east windstorms this year, and the waters of the bay are not so brackish. This is given as the probable cause of the heavy growth of wild rice and other duck food.

Inspector Bailey also reports that the live decoy ducks in Back Bay have suffered to a great extent this year by a disease called by the natives "couper." Before the spring migrations ceased many swan and other wild water fowl were found dead floating upon the waters of the bay.

The first year of the operation of the Weeks-McLennan migratory bird law, prohibiting spring shooting, shows that many black ducks breed in Virginia, and it is believed that more will remain here each year because of the stopping of the spring shooting.

Local sportsmen feel somewhat anxiously about the "couper," prevalent in Back Bay, thinking that the disease may be similar to that which carried off thousands of wild geese last fall and left the germs of the Western disease scattered along the Atlantic Coast.
